A comment from Bohumir Kratochvil (Brno University of Technology, Czech Republic) who was an Erasmus student in 2012 - 2013

"The Department of Computer Engineering at Mugla University in Turkey is young and modern institution with steadily developing course curriculums and tutors' skills. Moreover, the department has first class facilities with the latest equipment in the computer lab. Regarding students' life, there are several things that other European universities participating in Erasmus can't compete with. First of all, the local Turkish students are open-minded and party-oriented people; everyone will appreciate them for their hospitality. Secondly, it was the surroundings of Mugla that made my studies in Turkey enjoyable; living in an apartment in a coastal village Akyaka, surrounded by other international students was a great experience.

To sum it up, if you are able to get over such things as 'Turkish time' and animals on the loose, you will find Mugla University a perfect place to study."

We would also be happy to make an Erasmus agreement with you.
We hope to hear from you soon and make further joint studies.
